

The Midnight Company announces that it's recent hit show, THIS WILL BE The Spirit - & Songs - & Soul of NATALIE COLE has been extended, with two additional performances scheduled for this summer at The Blue Strawberry.

THIS WILL BE will be performed Sunday, June 22 at 7pm, and Thursday, July 3, 7:30pm. Tickets are on sale now, and can be reserved at BlueStrawberrySTL.com, or by calling 314.256.1745. Early reservations are highly recommended, as previous performances sold out quickly.

Kimmie Kidd stars, providing the story and the songs of Natalie Cole. (Kimmie will be seen later this summer in POTUS from Tesseract and the revival of MADAM from Fly North Theatricals.) Also in the cast are Christina Yancy, portraying the private Natalie, and Dereis Lambert as Nat King Cole. All were praised extravagantly by critics.

As was the Music Direction of Colin Healy (who wrote MADAM, and is directing LITTLE MISS SUNSHINE from Fly North at Greenfinch.) Bradley Rohlf provides percussion.

The show was written and directed by Joe Hanrahan who said "This extremely talented cast and musicians were deeply committed to telling this story and offering these songs. The result was a compelling and glorious show. Audiences loved it, and we're all happy to be bringing it back and doing it again."

The Midnight Company just announced Extended Performances of its long-running show about Linda Ronstadt, JUST ONE LOOK, with several additional performances announced for 2025. Also coming up for Midnight is PRIDE AND JOY, in July at The Chapel, and ST. NICHOLAS, playing at Greenfinch in October.
